

Australian Fresh Corporation is an integrated Australian agri-business which for the past 28 years, has been involved in the export of both horticultural and seafood products to most continents of the world.

The company not only plays a significant role in the export of mangoes and persimmons together with a range of other fruits and vegetables, it is also recognized as a quality exporter of live and fresh seafood. It owns and operates its own fishing vessels as well as contracting supply from a large number of privately owned commercial operators.

Besides being involved in the export business, Australian Fresh corporation is also dedicated to ongoing research and development.

In recent times, this commitment has resulted in a unique aquaculture success, the first of its kind in the world--the rearing of saltwater seafood in captivity.
